Introducing NEXT, located in Atlanta, GA, an innovative coworking and networking space. Here we will bring people together, startups and freelancers, designers, mobile workers and small businesses in different professions, for increasing productivity, business development, collaboration, community and fun.

NEXT will provide a sophisticated, smart space which includes open and private offices, conference and project rooms, a classroom, a studio equipped for prototype development, a spacious dining area for work and social events, and multiple spaces to collaborate or work independently. NEXT members will feel at ease and in full control of their development, a spacious dining area for work and social events, and multiple spaces to collaborate or work independently.

The bold, beautiful interior will empower and energize members to stay focused on their work—and enjoy belonging to a dynamic, friendly professional community.

Octavia Spelman
Research has shown co-working environments range from bright and upbeat, to sophisticated, elegant, playful and even stark. Co-working spaces should bring a great sense of comfort to individuals of all types. Comfortable, simple furniture with a spark of elegance is the way to accommodate productivity and a feeling of wellbeing.

Spacious environments allow for easy communication as well as focused work time. Networking is the key to a co-working space for professional development and collaboration. Multiple places for members to interact or work independently allow people to choose their ideal working environment according to their needs.

The interior design of a co-working space brings an environment where business is also fun.

Octavia Spelman